FAITHFUL THRILLED BY WEIRD DANCING

Holy Jumpers Give Strange Performance After Sermon.

WASHING OF FEET TO-DAY

Odd Spectacle as One Hundred in Choir Danced and Sang.

Members of the Church of God and the Saints of Christ, otherwise known as Holy Jumpers, are holding a religious festival in Richmond. The negroes in attendance from all parts of the country. The sessions are being conducted at True Reformers' Hall, on North Second Street, and for weird and dazzling performances, they outclass anything of the kind ever seen here before.

There was not standing room last night when Elder John Allen, of Middletown, N. Y., preached a sermon, explaining the faith, and swaying his audience majestically, until his strong and powerful voice was drowned in the shouting of some of the men on the stage in a semi-circle, one hundred men, in evening clothes, almost concealed behind rainbow ribbon streamers, shouted and clapped hands, laughing frequently.

Crowns On the Choir. But the main accessory of these Holy Jumpers was the choir, sitting just below the footlights and facing the congregation. There were probably 100 in the body, most of whom were women. They wore crowns, topped off with blood-red silk. Choristers in white, with white bows in each member's hair, faced the choir.

When Elder Allen sat down amid applause a short, thick-set woman arose suddenly, waived a baton and the choir started into activity. Instantly there came a volley of melody and song that brought about a shiver to the listening tongues and shuffling feet in front.

Worked Into a Frenzy. The leader of the choir cut wide circles in the thick air of the hall, and the dance began. The 100 voices changed quickly from an andante to an allegro, and as the women sang they danced, not, however, moving from the spot on which they stood. It seemed strangely out of place in a church, for that was what the hall had been converted into. Near the end of the row a woman, weighing more than 250 pounds, could be heard above the rest. She required more room, for she swayed to the right, then to the left, keeping time with the baton that was never still. Dancing by her side was a small, black negro boy, who swayed in falsetto tones, and from whose face streams of perspiration poured as he worked madly to keep in line with his heavyweight partner. Several times he dropped out of step, and once he changed from the scheduled performance and ran to the verge of an old-fashioned country "breakdown."

"Suffer Feet to be Washed." The man on the stage, with his stretched-out arms and his hands, the first line of each stanza alone, and as he halted the dazzling choir took it up, the sudden change in the volume of sound causing hundreds in the audience to stand up. The thing that started the men and women, until the dancers were fairly fagged by the exertion and work.

As the exhausted one hundred sat down the preacher walked briskly to the front of the stage, and said: "We are carrying on the ancient religious custom," he said, "and those that don't like our style can pick up and go."

Part of the crowd was passing out, but not because there was objection to the faith. "Just wait," shouted the preacher; "we are not going to take up a collection to-night. We are going to have an all-day service to-morrow, which is our Sabbath, and I want you to come in your Sunday clothes. This religion we do like God does. Now, will you join?"

"Yes, yes," came from all sides of the hall.

"Well," said the speaker, as the group on the stage moved. "Right, brother; talk to me, brother." "You must obey the commands. You must repent, be baptized and suffer your feet to be washed here before this line assembly."

No Sinners Appeared. Two, three, four stanzas were sung, but no sinner moved to the front. The crowd that was moving out was halted by uniformed ushers at the door until the benediction was sung. One negro, in great haste, pretended to be ill, but he was held back until the end.

The Sunday of the Holy Jumpers began last evening at sunset and will close at sunset to-day. From 9 o'clock this morning until the dancing choir being detailed for duty, if it can stand the strain. The convention will last until Monday night.

Biggs is from Maryland, where he has a widowed mother and several small brothers and sisters. He confessed to selling medicines—one, he told, for a quarter—but stated, in explanation, that he was ignorant of the law. The matter was taken up with Justice Crutchfield by Biggs's now-famous friends, and he was allowed to go. A ticket to his home was given to him by the same gentlemen who procured his release.

Gans-Rady Company*MISS GOULD SENDS A CHECK FOR $12,500

Generous Friend of Y. M. C. A. Pays First Half of Her Subscription.

PLANS BEING CONSIDERED TO LEAVE THIS AFTERNOON

Believed Actual Work on New Building Will Begin in Short Time.

Miss Helen Miller Gould, who returned home from Europe last week, has sent to Mr. W. J. Whitehurst, treasurer of the Young Men's Christian Association new building fund, check for $12,500. This is the first half of her subscription of $25,000 to the new building. Miss Gould is a generous friend of association work. She has been abroad ever since the campaign was so successfully launched and completed in Richmond, and immediately on her return forwarded her check.

The second payment of subscriptions will be due September 1st, and the committee hopes the contributors will remember that it will be a great saving of both time and money if they will remit promptly. With over 4,000 contributors, and with the difficulty of finding men in it takes a long time to see each one. The committee is much encouraged by the response to the first call, $10,000 having been paid in.

Richmond made a world record for fifteen days on the amount subscribed, and it is hoped that she will make a world record for promptness of payment. This will count for even more than the first record. Over a thousand contributors have already paid in full. The committee is studying in a most careful manner every feature pertaining to the new building, and as soon as this study is completed, matters will be put in shape for submission to the architects. The new building office is located on the second floor of the Association Building, Main and Sixth Streets. Payments on subscriptions may be sent there or mailed to Mr. W. J. Whitehurst, treasurer, care of box 505. It is confidently expected that enough of the funds will have been paid in within the next few weeks to warrant the committee in going ahead with the new building, the completion of which is so eagerly looked forward to by the young men and boys of the city.

KENTUCKY GIRLS VISIT RICHMOND

Editor of Owen County Democrat Taking Party to Jamestown Exposition.

Remain at Seaside Four Days and Return Home by Way of Washington.

A party of Kentuckians from the Blue Grass section, mostly young girls who are prize-winners in a contest conducted by the Owen County Democrat, arrived in the city over the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad yesterday afternoon, en route to the Jamestown Exposition, and are stopping at the Lexington. The Blue Grass maidens are being chaperoned by Mr. J. H. Westover, of Owenton, owner and editor of the Owen County Democrat, and they all enjoyed their trip through the beautiful Virginia mountains. The girls were all well, but very tired upon their arrival. Mr. Westover is accompanied by his wife, and there are several other married ladies in the party.

They will drive through the city, seeing the sights to-day, and will leave here for the exposition at 4 o'clock this afternoon over the Chesapeake and Ohio.

At Jamestown the visitors will spend four days and will go to Washington by boat, remaining there for two days before returning home. Mr. Westover runs a weekly paper in the little town of Owenton, which is in the heart of the great tobacco belt of Kentucky. He is a rural community, and is Democratic to the core, as are the editor and the members of his party.

Like Virginians, all Kentuckians are politicians to a greater or lesser extent, and the Owen County Democrat and its editor are always heard from in political campaigns in old Kentucky.

Mr. Westover was asked concerning the political situation last night, but he said things were pretty quiet yet awhile, as the campaign had not yet opened up.

Those constituting the Kentucky party are: J. H. Westover and wife, Harry and Willie Westover, Frank Fullerton and wife, Miss Fullerton, Miss Sarah Gayle, Miss Gypsy Sibbott, Miss Nellie B. Lucas, Miss Archie Moss, Miss Maggie Green, Miss Annie True, Miss Gracie Garrey, Miss Elizabeth Carter, Miss Susie Elmore, Miss Lillian Sanderson, Miss Alice Kate Brackley, Miss Ida B. Lillard, Miss Loretta Yancy, W. A. Barnes and wife, Wm. Harris and wife, Miss Lella Pryor, Miss Mary Pryor, Miss Luella Douglas, Miss Virginia Ruth, R. W. O'Neal and wife, James Harris.

GREAT RAILROAD MORTGAGE FILED

Secures Loan of Ten Million Dollars for General Improvement of Chesapeake & Ohio.

RECORDING FEE NEAR $4,000

Many Dog Owners in Henrico Defying Officers—Woman Dies on Way to Asylum.

After having been filed in the Hanover County Court, the $10,000,000 mortgage of all the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad properties and holding to the New York Trust Company and William H. White, trustees, was admitted to record in the Henrico County Court yesterday afternoon. The recording fee amounted to $3,945.95, the tax being governed by the value of the Chesapeake and Ohio property in the State as compared with the property of the entire road.

Improvement of Road. This large loan, authorized by a two-thirds vote of the board of directors in its meeting on July 25, is for the general improvement of the railroad. The company directed its officers to execute and deliver to the New York Trust Company and William H. White, trustees, a mortgage deed of trust to bear date the 1st day of August, 1907, and to secure an issue of ten-year five per cent. gold bonds in the amount of $10,000,000, to be denominated of $100,000 each, of the denomination of $100,000 each, of the board of directors shall, from time to time, order, to an amount not exceeding, in the aggregate, the principal sum of $10,000,000, each of the bonds to be equally secured by the said mortgage and deed of trust, without preference, priority, or distinction of any one over the other.

The bonds expire August 1, 1917, interest to be paid semi-annually, on February 1st and August 1st, though the railroad company reserves the right to redeem and pay off the bonds issued by the payment of the principal, with a premium of five per cent, and the interest accrued to the date of redemption.

The bonds may be called for redemption, and may become due on the first day of February, or the first day of August, in any year before maturity, upon notice published in the cities of New York and Richmond once a week for eight consecutive weeks.

The holder, or registered owner, may, at his option, surrender for cancellation the bond, with all unattached coupons attached or appertaining, in exchange for a full registered bond, without coupons, as provided in the mortgage and deed of trust. The company
